Thanks for the note. Unfortunately, I think that we have other chapters who are doing similar things as that occurred with SAE.

Kelly Jo,

This is a disheartening development and perpetuates images and stereotypes that we are all trying to change. As an alumni advisor I will make sure that the implications of this are not lost on our Delta Chi Chapter Leadership.

All FSL Student Leaders –

I am sure you are waking to see the DI article and wanted to make sure that you had the official statements from both SAE HQ and the University. I would ask that before you speak with any media, that you please talk to your alumni advisors about making statements. Their instructions should probably be shared with the chapter, so that you are all on the same page.

This is a very difficult time for our community and I believe we have some serious issues to continue to address.

Thanks,

Good lord!!!! Are you serious?! What are they thinking?! I just keep thinking about where the shot of alcohol was coming from. Sick, sick, sick. I can understand that peer pressure is a very strong force, but really?! GROSS!

Students right now...honestly...I think that this is the tip of the iceberg. I think that SEVERAL of our fraternities have been having these stripper parties...and we have a lot that will either follow suit or will need to clean house.

I'm so sorry! Who is the biggest pain right now? Is it students, parents, everyone? Do you want me to yell at someone for you? I was trying to figure out how to send you a gift card for alcohol...drinks on me after the run next weekend for sure!!

I am quitting. Is Theta hiring? I would like to be able to work from St. Louis if possible.

Sri & [REDACTED] –

Just in case you are contacted by any media regarding SAE...here is a response for you:

Each of the four governing councils of the Fraternity and Sorority Life Community has a policy that strictly prohibits hazing. Hazing education and policy discussions occur annually. Section D of the Code of Student Life prohibits hazing in fraternities, sororities, student organizations, and other University-affiliated student clubs and teams. In addition, every national or international fraternity or sorority on the Iowa campus has anti-hazing policies that are strictly enforced.

Please contact Tom Moore, University Spokesperson, for additional information.
